

Once upon a time there was a little fairy named Zinda who lived in a enchanted village.

She lived with her grandparents. Zinda was very poor and hungry. She was only a like fairy.

One day the King sent some guards to tell the news that the queen is very ill.

One of the guards came over to Zinda's house and told her that she needed to come to the king.

The next day Zinda packed her stuff and waved goodbye to her grandparents.

Once she got there the King greeted Zinda kindly and shown her the room where she would live.
